

Work Assist Program

At Altius Group we understand the impacts an injury, disability or health condition can have on an individual's ability to perform their job.

Our CIM Employment team delivers the Work Assist Program to support employees to manage their physical and mental health through a wide range of innovative and integrated allied health support services and workplace based assistance.

CIM Employment's Work Assist Program is free to eligible businesses with employees having difficulty fulfilling the essential requirements of their employment due to an injury, disability or a health condition.

Our professionals help to match specific employee needs with appropriate allied health services to deliver a tailored approach to managing their injury, disability or health condition - improving their workplace tolerances, capabilities and productivity.

Maintaining Employment through the Work Assist Program

Mature age workers, individuals with chronic health conditions (including diabetes, arthritis, cardiovascular disease, obesity etc) and those with musculoskeletal and mental health conditions are encouraged to seek support through the Work Assist Program to maintain their employment.

Our support services include:

- Tailored worker support programs
- Allied health support programs
- Employer support strategies and plans
- Counselling
- Pain management
- Assessments conducted by allied health professionals
- Training
- Job re-design
- Workplace modifications
- Hearing device support
- Facilitated referrals as necessary

eligibility requirements apply to each of the above*

Our Team
